

THE

TIGER

FOR

1972

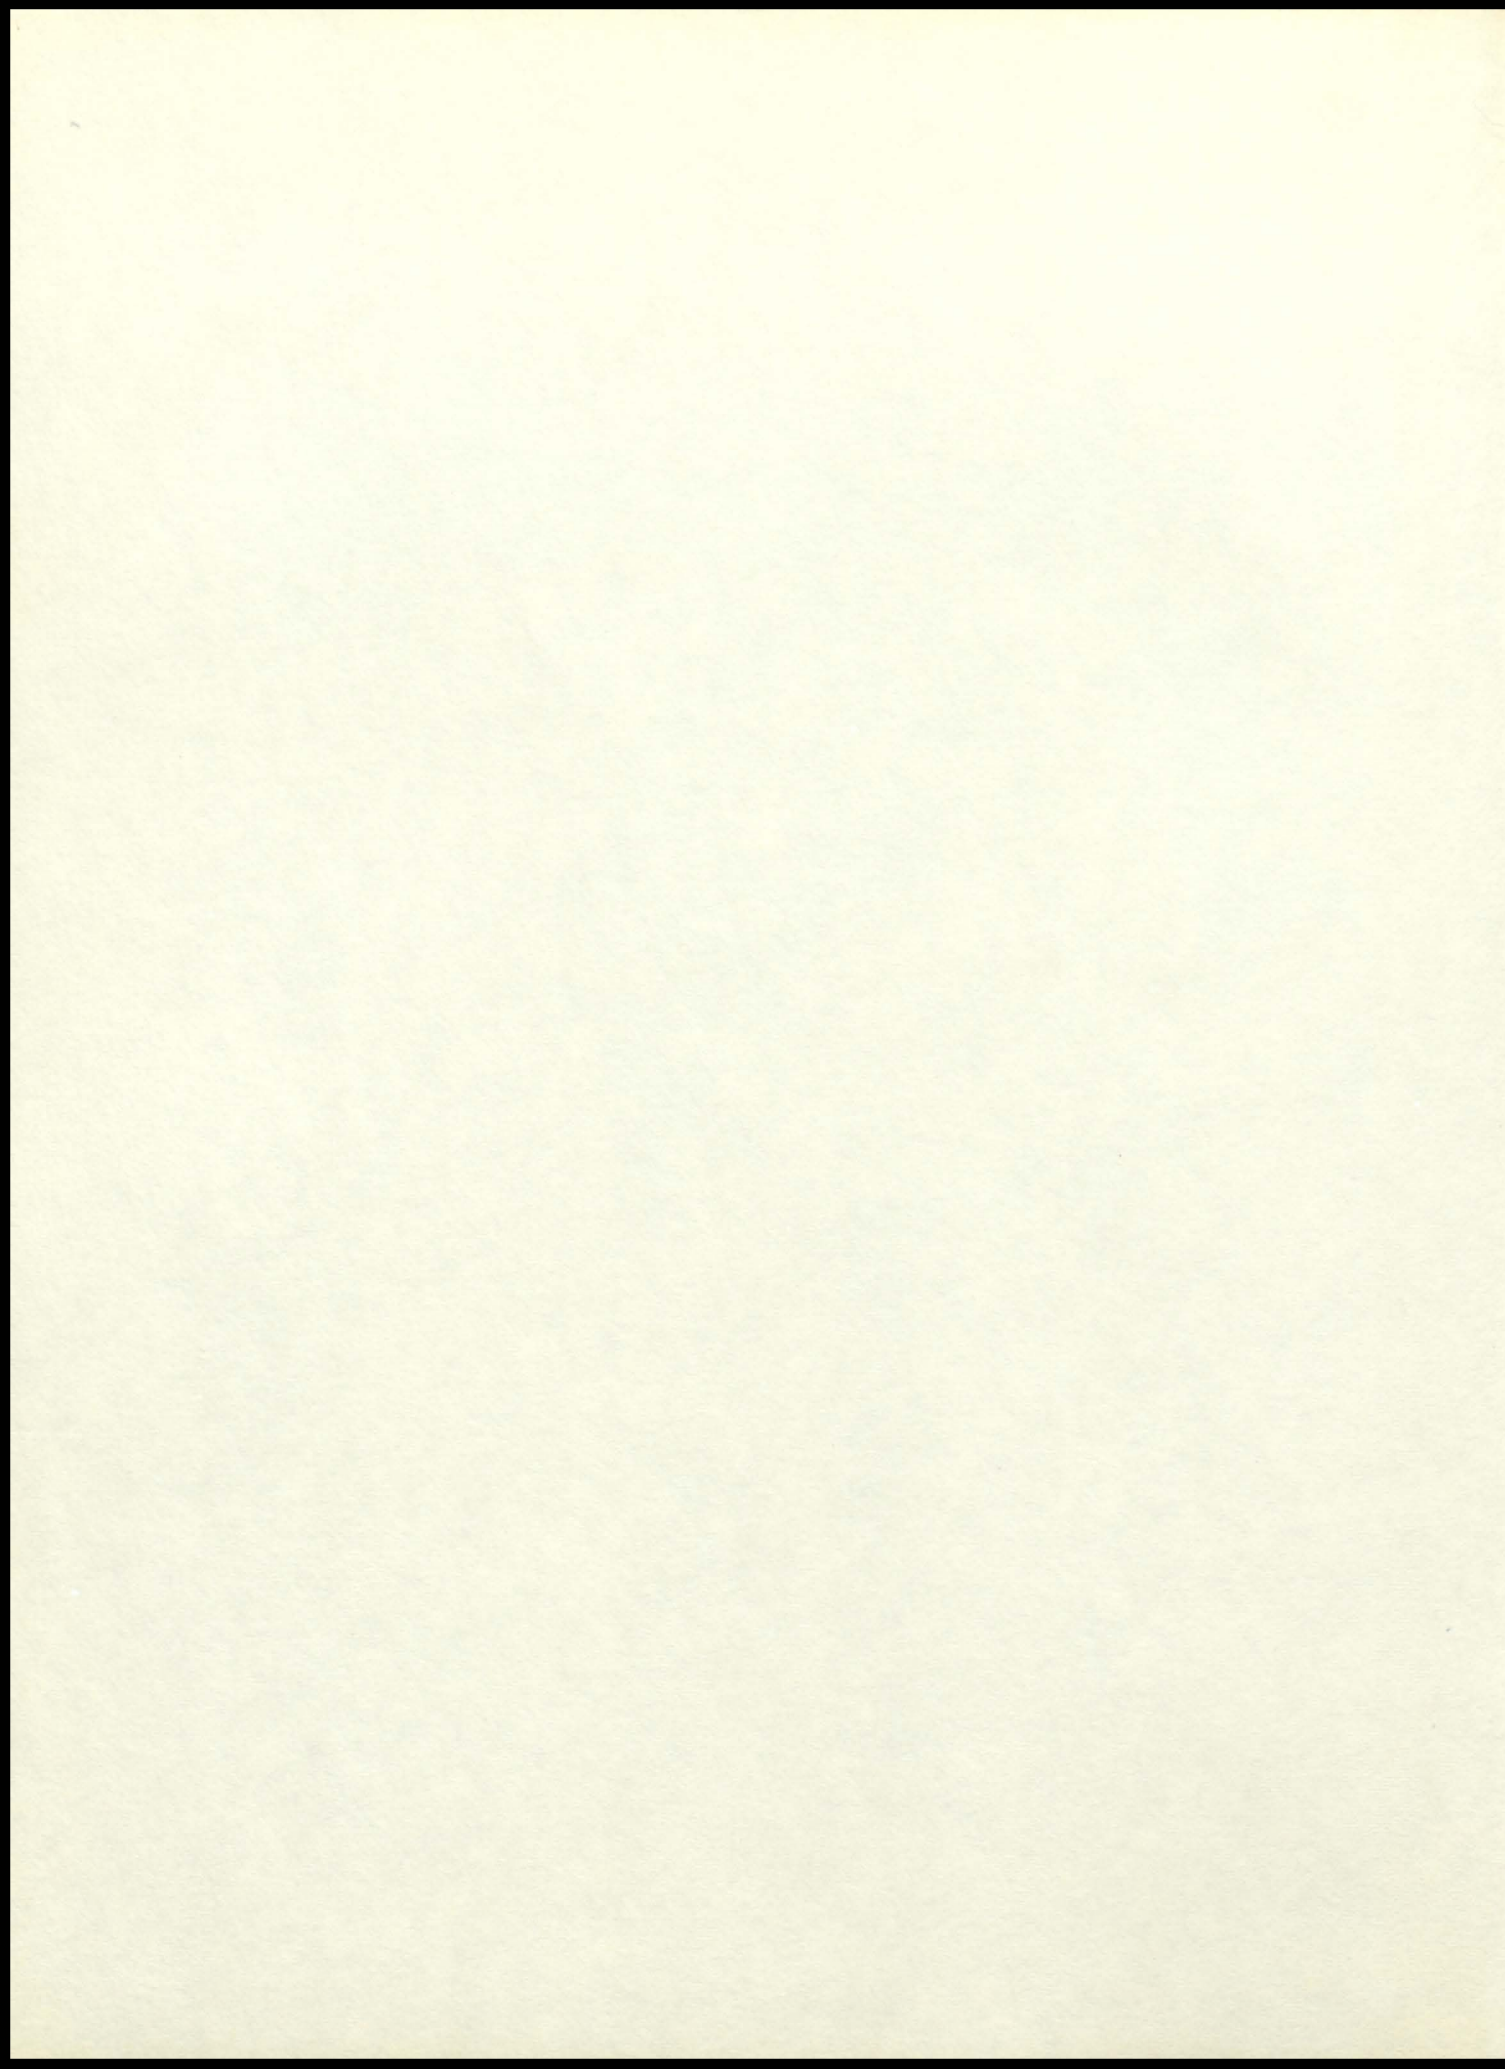

The first part of the paper discusses the importance of understanding the cultural context of the research. It highlights the need for researchers to be sensitive to the values and beliefs of the communities they are studying. This is particularly important in the field of education, where cultural differences can significantly impact learning outcomes.

The second part of the paper focuses on the methodology used in the study. It describes the process of selecting participants, collecting data, and analyzing the results. The authors emphasize the importance of using a mixed-methods approach to gain a comprehensive understanding of the research topic.

The third part of the paper presents the findings of the study. It discusses the results of the quantitative data analysis and the insights gained from the qualitative interviews. The authors conclude that there are significant differences in learning outcomes between the two groups, and these differences can be attributed to cultural factors.

The final part of the paper discusses the implications of the findings for future research and practice. It suggests that educators should be aware of the cultural context of their students and tailor their teaching methods accordingly. Additionally, it calls for further research to explore the underlying reasons for the observed differences.

Dedication

Through the wins and losses, the spirited crowds, and crowded gymnasiums, the touchdowns, pins, baskets, and hurdles - each one of you teachers has stayed with us. Together we have had both sunny and gloomy days. All these have led to our friendships with you as adults, teachers, and just one of us. Your way of treating us as people as well as students will remain in our minds and hearts through life.

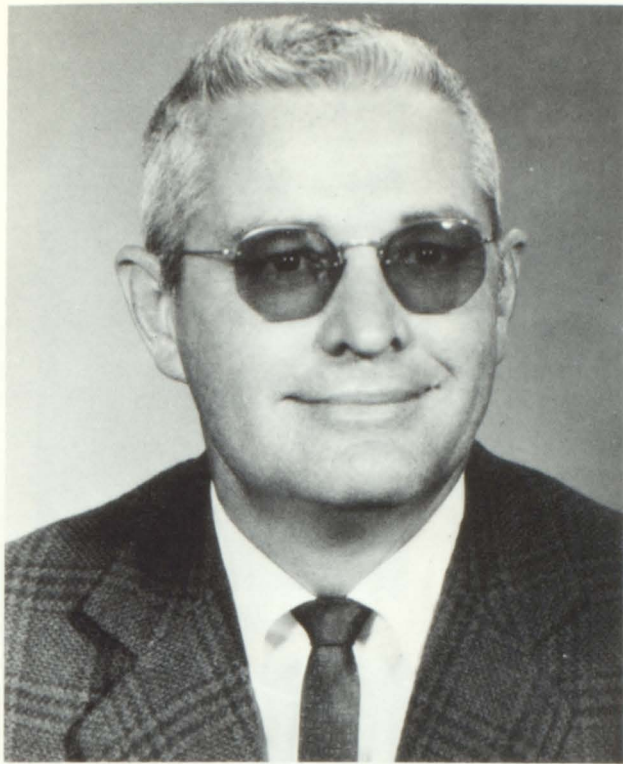

Our class wishes that this feeling of pride and understanding may always flow freely between this faculty and the students. So to the teachers of Hayden High School, who inspired us to look for greater achievements in life, and whose personalities have won the admiration of the Senior class, we fondly dedicate this 1972 Annual.

Education is painful, continual, and difficult work to be done by kindness, by watching, by warning, by precept, and by praise, but above all - by example.

Class Prophecy

The year is 1982. Mr. Reagan and Mrs. Morgan decide to check up on the class and see what trouble they are in now. Due to pollution and war most of our class has moved to the moon, so they will visit the ones on earth first. They put on gas masks and with guns in their hands they advance cautiously. Through the smog they see Patty as a guidance counselor talking to Dave Wright. He tells us that he has just sold his formula for an after-shave that will kill the odor of smog and attract girls by the dozen. Mrs. Morgan sees a crowd of girls heading for Dave and, although Mr. Reagan wants to delay a few minutes, hurries on. In Milner they find George, Pat, and Gale collecting beer cans to sell for recycling. As they are working hard at emptying more beer cans, they cannot talk long, and our one-time sponsors catch a plane. The pilot turns out to be Janet who has married a millionaire and bought TWA. She says that she is kept busy making flights to the moon and mixing drinks (for the passengers, of course). As we land in Alaska we are met by Frank who spends his time manufacturing flashing fluorescent lights and racing ski-doo's with the enemies. He directs us to John who is running a co-ed wrestling camp for the Eskimos. He has already sent two boys and one girl to State.

They catch another plane, piloted by Janet's husband, and travel to Arabia where they find Randy and his five wives. He is very busy with his 7 daughters and 2 sons and does not even try to speak to them over the noise of his home. They manage to escape from his harem (again Mrs. Morgan has to pull Mr. Reagan away) and take a boat to Mexico. There they find Georgia working in a school for the deaf. After meeting her husband they continue to Brazil where Martin and Dave are building fences. As they are busy chasing peasants with their red-pickup, Mrs. Morgan and Mr. Reagan cannot catch them to talk to them. So they return to the coast and catch a flight to the moon. They are surprised to find Lorie and Peggy as their hostesses. Both spend their spare time changing diapers and sobering up their husbands.

At last they reach the moon and the first person they see as they step down is Dean. He is an aeronautics officer and teaches his work to girls, to which he doesn't object. They hurry on and stop to rest in a church. Imagine their surprise when the priest turns out to be Mike. He tells them the sad story of how he wore one of his see-through shirts one day and had to resort to priesthood to rid himself of the girls that followed him around. They leave Mike to his problems and go visit the school. There they find Nancy teaching literature and Debbie teaching speech. Mrs. Morgan, however, refuses to repeat what kind of literature and speech they are teaching their students. In the office they find Judy as secretary. Although she can type 140 words a minute, she still finds herself being rushed (mostly by the male teachers).

They travel toward the darker side of the moon and find Sharon as a nurse to cratered children. She is doing well at her job and especially at flirting with the doctors, so they leave her to her duties.

Checking up on Joyce, they find that she is happily married and is a hair stylist. She is very good at cutting shags. As they step out of the beauty shop Brenda comes roaring up through the craters on her motorcycle and offers them a ride. She tells them that she has become a racer and takes them to Carol Wyman's wild life sanctuary. In case the life gets too wild she has Carol Dunckley, who has joined the WAVES, send over some of the men she has recruited to calm things down. They leave the wild life and motorcycles behind and visit Mable on her sheep ranch. There they also find Tim, a handsome cowboy, helping manage things. They do not stay long, though, as the police are investigating the case of a dead sheepherder found on her ranch. Next they find Evelyn in a remote corner. She has become a bum and makes a "living" selling ice cream with black olives.

They hear that Sam has become a basketball coach and visit his camp. Although Sam tells them that his real desire was to become a professional dittoer, he seems content to show his team of three boys how to play a real game. Now it is Mr. Reagan who has to pull Mrs. Morgan away from the boys, and they move on to find Gordon installing a telephone in a girls dormitory but he is too involved in his work to talk to them. Randal has become a computer programmer, and as most of his programs include girls, he says that he finds life on the moon quite interesting. Last but not least they find Bryan running a jeep service for "blondes, brunettes, and red-heads only." Although it sounds as though Bryan is very particular about his passengers, he actually does a lot of business.

Satisfied that their students have not changed from being continually in trouble and seem to be happy, Mrs. Morgan and Mr. Reagan settle into their TWA seats and prepare for the long journey back home.

Last Will and Testament

I, Patty Andersen, will my lifetime diary to Mad Magazine.

I, George Archuleta, will my wrestling ability to Carl Lowter in hopes he uses it well.

I, Pat Archuleta, will my ability to skip school to anyone who thinks they can get away with it.

I, Randal Barnes, will, sometimes, but not very often.

I, Gordon Booco, will if I can but I can't so I won't.

I, Sharon Cannon, will my ability to keep out of trouble, or at least keep people from knowing when I do get in trouble, to my sister in the hopes that she will not give my mother gray hair.

I, Lorie Coverston, will my gymnastics ability to Edith Webster in hopes that she can do better than I have.

I, Joyce Denker, will my body to Mr. Yoast for dissection post-mortemly after death, and to be stained only with eosin and haemoteilyn dyes, and to be returned in good condition to Ye Olde Undertaker for decent interment.

I, Nancy Dowling will to any debator my ability to bluff my way through a speech.

I, Carol Duncley, will my attentiveness to anyone who can perfect the saying, "Huh, What?"

I, Martin Elmour, will my wavy hair to Kathy Stanton if she thinks she can handle it.

I, Dean Foxworthy, will my susceptibility to mumps to Delbert in hopes that after he recovers minus 20 pounds, he will be able to get off the floor when he jumps.

I, Brenda Fredrickson, will the challenge of breaking my record of six hours bed-jumping to Doug Dalton in hopes that he can break it at Glenwood next year.

I, Tim Frentress, will my height to Steve Blake in hopes it will him win a game.

I, Peggy Howard, will not will anything to anyone who is willing.

I, John Kagie, will to Mike Bell my wrestling ability.

I, Gale Kirk, will to Judy Zehner my ability to be quiet in study hall.

I, Georgia Mann, will my Spanish to Cindy Gledhill in hopes she can stay in class.

I, Mike Markle, will my bad knee to Mike Gulliford in hopes that he can play better with one short leg.

I, Debra McCarty, will my height to Elizabeth O. in hopes that she will use it to her best advantages, if any.

I, Sam Montieth, refuse to will anything to anyone.

I, Bryan Rickman, will my hat to Mr. McDaniel in hopes that he will keep it off in the building.

I, Judy Rhodes, will my athletic ability to Cindy G.

I, Evelyn Simkins, will my ability to be late to every place I go to any person who wants to enjoy life at a slow pace.

I, Randy Turner, will to Bruce Scott my new blue suit and shirt in hopes he will dress up for games.

I, Dave Wright, will my ability not to blush to Debbie Howard when somebody is talking to her.

I, Carol Wyman, will to my little sister, Sam, all my cheerleading skills in hopes that she gets elected again and makes a better cheerleader.

I, Frank Yoast, do will my ability to give teachers a hard time to anybody with enough guts to do it and enough sense to know when to quit.

I, Mable Yoast, will my talent for herding sheep to Miss Ensworth because she's a dude.

I, Janet Solace, will my ability to get a lot of fun out of life to Marie Williams in hopes she can handle it as well as I can.
